

Abstract

An adjustable cargo retaining system. The system includes a retaining member that is received by a retaining member support, and a removable spacer that urges the retaining member against the retaining member support.